CONDEMNING 'EM, -At a meeting of the Gar field and Arthur clab of the city, hold at Old Fellows Hall last night, with George Cooper, oflored, in the chair, the following resolutions, offered by John Sails, colored, were adopted : Resolved. That we do most carnestly condemn the action of Lowis McKenzie, A. A. Warfield, J. C. O'Neal and other government officials in this city as disorganizers, and doing all in their power to prevent the party's harmony and success in the Presidential contest.

Be it further resolved that we doem them unworthy of the party's confidence for public place and that whatever administration trusts them with place does its supporters injustice, by elevating such unworthy persons over men who can be trusted.

Resolved also, That we condomn Judgo Wil-loughby's letter as an unwarranted and unjustifiable attack upon one's private character, to which no gentleman would stoop.

A resolution was also adopted endorsing the nomination of Major S. P. Bedy, for Congress.

A FINE SPECIMEN .- A handsome engine, r-built at the shops of the Virginia Midland Rulcoad, in this city, mide its first appearance on the track of that road this morning. This engine is a splendid spec men of what Alexandria mechanics are capable of doing. A few weeks ago two new parlerents, commerced and completed at the shops of the road here, were put on itial, and they were declared by all to be equal, it not superior, for beauty and comfort to augthing manders could remove any civil officer of any of the kind ever turned out from Northern establishments, pr. vius conclusively that for skilled workmacship, at least, Alexandria orn cope with her more bosstful Northern sisters.

Grant and Hancock.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 .- The Times this morn ing publishes the following special from Cincionati :

The Gazette will print to morrow the report of an interview between the Rev. C. H. Fowler, D. D., and General Grant, which gives some startling points in connection with the inside history of Hancock's order No. 40. General Grant talked freely to Dr. Fowler, and, after the interview, gave his written consent to its publication under certain restriction as to time. The conversation took place in General Grant's library at Galena on the 21st of September. Speaking of Hancock, the ex President said : Down to 1864 he seemed like a man ambitious to do his duty as an officer, but in 1864, when McClellan was nominated, Hanocck received one vote, and that greatly excited and changed him. He was so delighted that he smiled all over. It crazed him. Before that we got on well; after that he would hardly speak to me. I was working to enforce the laws of Congress, and he was working for the presidency. Perhaps he thought I did not praise him enough; but any way he hardly spoke to me. It was on whether or not they will accept the invitation my nomination that he was made a brigadier general in the regular simy. When I was made general, Stanton told me it was a compliment to me, and that I could name the men to fill the vacancies in the lieutenant generalship and major generalship caused by my promotion. I pominated him for the vacant major generalship in the regular army. He acknowledged it manfully. He was a very fair corps commander, but was never thought of for any great place. When the Army of the Potemio was hunting for a commander it took almost every body—even came over into the West for officere, but nobody ever even suggested Hancock for the place. After he received that vote in 1864 he had 'the bee' in his bannot, and shaped everything to gain democratic and Southern favor. He has watched and planned, and waited till at last he has received the democratio nomination.' "Do you thick General that his colebrated

order No. 40, represents the direction of his "Well, I will give you the true inner history of order No. 40. Congress was striving to prevent Andrew Johnson from undoing the reconstruction laws. Whenever Congress passed a law Johnson bent his energies to defeat its enforcement and would find pretexts to dodge round it. Then Congress would pass another law to hedge him up there. So it went on till Congress had taken from him all control of the General's commanding the seven districts of the South, except the power to remove them and appoint others in their places. These comgrade, Judge or Governor. When I was made General and they were determining my powers and duries, they gave the General by accident, I think, or without seeing all it involved, cocraigate power with these district commanders and as I was senior it gave me authority. Gen. liamson, the tean who was yesterday morning Sheridan was sent to the department of Louisisent to the work house by order of Action and, covering Louisiana and Texas. He is Mayor E. E. Dewnham for the non payment of very shrewd and very able. He kept his eyes open, learning rapidly the men who were not Barke, eq., pairioned Judge A. W. Chilton | worthy to eccupy their places and discovering compotent and worthy med to put in their o'clock in the evening, ou the ground that the places. The Legislature of Louisiana passed a fice averaged acainst him was illegal, paid his law authorizing the issue $7,000,000 of levee fine before the application for the writ came to bords, estensibly for the lever. They condiand three commissioners were to place the bonds | Call and look at them. on the market, but they soon found out that the boads would not bring more than 40 per to maim, disfigure, disable and kil; prisoner cent. To avoid the law they invented the plan arraigned; pleaded not guily; jury swore, and of berrowing money and using the bonds as collateral. They could borrew about 34 or 35 per copt of the face of the bonds. Just at this juncture, to prevent these men from defrauding the State, General Sheridan took off the heads of the Governor and commissioners so quick that they did not know what siled then; and apprinted good men in their places. Orleans, who spect last winter in this city, is | For some reason the removed men were very auxious to be reappointed. They employed Reverdy Johnson and another lawyer to work for them, agreeing to pay them $250,000 if they were reinstated. This is a great deal of money for four men to pay for positions, unless there is some special aim in the case. Reverdy Johnson e me to me, but was so s upid and stubborn hat I could not be induced to reappoint them. He wept to Andrew Johnson and made his case. and Andrew Johnson sent for me and asked me to teinstate these mon. I refused to do so. He said, 'Reinstate them, even if it is only for one day. I will promise that they will resign. I thought Johnson might not know of the motive why they were so acrious to be reinstated, and thinking I would do him a great service in keeping him from a great blander, I told bim that one bour would save those men as well as one day, and I unfolded their intent. But Johnson insisted on their being reinstated. I refused and excused myself. Johnson then removed Gen. Sheridan und appointed Gen. Harcick. He called Harcock to Washington to issuruct him in defeating the laws of Congress concern ing reconstruction. As soon as I learned that Hancock was in town I called at his hotel instead of sending for him. I wanted to see him privately in his own room. I found him in his room perhaps before he had his breakfast. I said: 'General, you and I are soldiers—army officers. We have life positions. We serve under successive administrations without regard to party. It is our duty to enforce the laws of Congress. We are not responsible for the wis-Congress. We are not responsible for the wis-dom of the laws. Congress bears that responsibility. We simply enforce them.' He said:
'Well I am opposed to nigger domination.' I said: 'Geners!. it is not a question of nigger domination. Four millions of ex slaves without education or property can hardly dominate 30,000,000 of whites with all the education and property. It is a question of doing our sworn duty.' He said: 'Well I am opposed to nigger domination.' I saw that my only chance to influence him was by the remnant of authority leit in my hands. He was determined to please the democratic party and the South. He went South and removed the Governor and Commissioners that Gen. Sheridan had appointed. I instantly telegraphed him not to appoint to of-fice any men who had been removed, and to give me his reasons by mail for removing the men. He tolegraphed in a long reply, costing the government $250, his reasons. I telegraphed him the reasons were not sufficient; to send by mail other reasons. He reason to lographed about the same points, only not quite so long, costing only $150. He telegraped that if he could not have freedom to act his usefulness would be destroyed, and telegraphed to him to revoke his order. a ked Johnson to relieve him as no one else could. That is the inner history and spirit of celebrated order No. 40. This order resulted in the less of many lives. I know of cases and can give them. His statement that the civil autuorities are supreme is a truth admitted by all in time of established peace, but I can demon-strate that he did not subject the military power o the civil, but that he used military power to verthrow the civil.'

In speaking of the Chicago convention, Gen. Grant said: There are three reasons why I would have accepted the numination. First: On account of the character of the men who urged it I ceteem their respect and confidence more than the nomination. Second: I believe I could have broken up the solid Scuth. Many life long democrats in the Scuth had given the strongest assurrances of their cordial support, believing that I could deliver them from the evils of a solid South. Third: Their is another partial reason. I believe that I could have induced, from my knowledge of our consulates, the enactment of certain laws touching our commerce that would have given us control of much desirable commerce—for instance in Mexislave labor and receive little or nothing but stearling exchange."

Dr. Fowler, who held the above conversation with the ex President, was, until recently, editor of the Advocate, a leading Methodist paper, published in New York. He is now missionary socretary of the Methodist Episcopal Church.
